" . . love the sunshine of the meadow, love the shadow of the forest, love the wind among the branches, and the rain-shower and the snow-storm and the rushing of great rivers through their palisades of pine-trees, and the thunder in the mountains . . ." — longfellow

"mine are the night and morning, the pits of air, the gulf of space, the sportive sun, the gibbous moon, the innumerable days." — emerson

early morning hours found students fortifying their stomachs with doughnuts and orange juice from the cafeteria, which provided a substitute breakfast for those who had overslept. other falcons spent the minutes before classes in line waiting for blue and pink slips. they seldom minded the length of the lines and were often seen switching from one to the other in a subtle attempt to shorten an unbearably long first period. others "toured" the halls and still others gossiped in the corners. with the ringing of the second bell falcons drained their orange juice, grabbed absence and tardy notes, ended conversations, and made their way to the inevitable first period class.

every day was a busy one here at york. the teachers' day began with the familiar sights of mrs. seward saying "farewell till 3:30" to her hubby and mrs. credle putting up her "no mistakes" timings! a few students got to school early in order to finish last night's homework, while others played around in the halls, classrooms, mr. markoff's office, etc.

following the 8:30 bell, classes and work began (?) in spite of a few daydreamers, you could always see the government students scrambling for the morning newspaper. what would we do without current events they asked?! the halls were so crowded this year that the stairs were made one way.
 if you were caught going "up the down staircase". . . lookout!

while the morning chemistry classes were busy experimenting on how to sabotage yhs, the american culture classes were "getting away from it all" in good ole williamsburg. even though the 18-year-old vote did not pass in va., the gov't. classes voted anyway.

after many hard weeks of behind the wheel for our future drivers, the authorities relented and gave them their licenses. along with being late for class, secret meetings in the hall and eating in class, there were times of consultation with teachers about difficult problems.

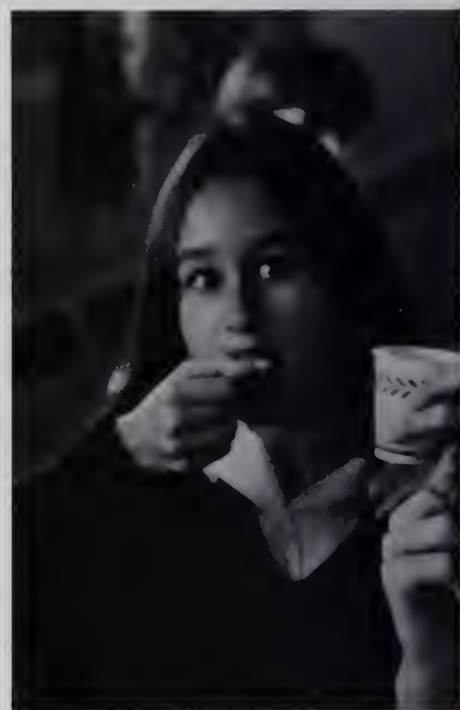

as the pre-school admit slip crowd finally dwindled away from mr. markoff's office, the morning classes settled into the daily groove. nurse and brick masonry students seemed to be hard at work but you didn't have to look too hard to find a few daydreamers. there was a rumor that yhs was sinking and you just might have believed it when you saw the big crack outside mrs. brown's classroom windows and the wooden device holding up the wall! as noon drew near, students looked forward to lunchtime chatter and the sounds of wycs.

as 11:30 grew nearer you could see students lurking near the cafeteria — trying to determine by the scrumptious aromas what gourmet delight was for lunch.

inside, incidents such as mustard-squirting resulted in some unlucky "retaliators" being sentenced to clean the mess off the floor with a toothbrush.

the afternoons were busy ones for rotc members who practiced their marksmanship, for art classes working on their projects, for guidance aids trying to keep the shelves neat and for busy falcon photographers trying their darndest to fill their many work orders. who didn't notice mrs.
 brown's moby dick museum? brick masonry students were busy building fire places in dare, and electronics classes, including graduate students, were helpful and willing to repair miscellaneous appliances. do you suppose that leg got broken from going "up the down staircase?!"

THE MOBY DICK MUSEUM

variety is the spice of life. some good-natured humor, stringing beads, a little "shut-eye," and a lot of work — york had all this and more.

the buses were here. the bell rang and tired but happy students came out of yhs to board the waiting buses. many ran to the student parking lot with keys ready and others walked, thumbed, etc. soon all were gone and york rested in sweet solitude . . . until tomorrow!

audiences of this year's assemblies noticed the attentive and quiet atmosphere that prevailed. for achieving this nearly forgotten atmosphere, york's administration can be complimented. it was decided that worthwhile programs would be presented in such a way that would contribute to student learning and enjoyment. to do this, each program was presented separately to sophomore, junior, and senior audiences, making for less crowded and quieter assemblies. this is one kind of class distinction that seemed to pay off.

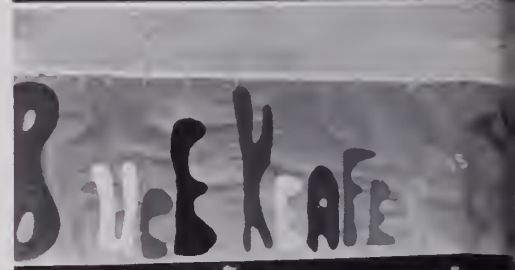

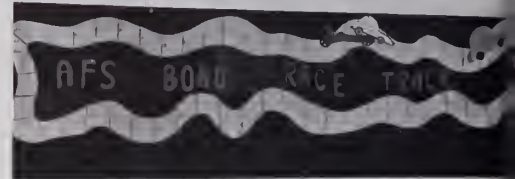

a variety of performances entertained york students last year. pep rallies continued to be a major factor in encouraging spirit for the school teams during their seasons. talented drama students presented a version of the nativity. seniors gained the privilege of having assemblies once a month, the first of which was a stage band performance. the beta club tapped in sixty new members, making its membership larger than in previous years. as a special treat, the navy band performed for the student body, playing popular music, dancing with the students, and displaying their "what-ever-it-was."

after the last bell rang, the buses had left, and the students had finished raiding the coke machine and the afs bakesale, the halls echoed with a new sound — the laughter and gossip of club meetings. the presidents hurriedly called meetings to order to discuss club trips, projects, inducting new members, and planning guest speakers. maybe refreshments were served but they would be gone in a few minutes. the meetings were then adjourned, the school was empty, and the lonely, deserted halls became the friends of the janitor.

sca president-elect dave jones, pulling the donkey, gives an example of his unique leadership qualities while 1971 president kurbjun gets another busy day underway at the office.

after school is:
 — diligent practice in an effort to attain the esteemed position of no. 1.
 — the headaches produced by gruelling games of the mind and body.
 — the sweet sorrow of parting lovers.
 — satisfaction for nicotine fiends.

the 3:30 bell sounds, students flock from boring classes to lockers, buses, and cars. but still the halls of york high are not silent. why? do you really believe that people like school that much to stay after every day? the only solution seems to be that they like to practice. yes, those students that remained after school were the guys who were interested in sports, the majorettes, and the cheerleaders. they practiced and strived for excellence in their performances, whether they were playing on the football field, cheering, or twirling a baton.

practice hour is . . .
 shakers falling to pieces;
 a missing shoulder pad;
 auditioning for the talent show;
 running to yorktown and back in a sweat suit;
 leaving your baton at home;
 pole-vaulting into the bleachers;
 not being able to reach that high note;

wrapping your brand new putter around the nearest tree; slamming a tennis ball into the woods;
 forgetting your lines at
 rehearsal;
 getting tackled one time too many;
 making one-hundred per cent of your lay-up shots (like skip lowe);
 a one-handed cartwheel on the balance beam;
 making the preliminaries for the
 miss york high pageant;
 having to learn five new cheers
 when you can hardly walk; forgetting to take pictures of practice hour;
 and . . .

missing the activities bus home.

the meeting was intended for the white students of y.h.s. to express their grievances over certain student affairs. the party was crashed by a few of the brothers who wanted to use the stage for a talent show. one act consisted of a penny toss until chairman linda washburn took over the floor. the show really got on the road, literally and figuratively, as students dodged flying objects, in a vain attempt to make for the door. upon reaching the sanctuary of york's halls, battle-weary students took an inventory of the wounded and missing in action. an overall retreat found both armies massed on the front lawn underneath the ever-watchful eyes of york county's well-equipped riot squad. fleeing for safety or maybe just to get out of the scene, falcons piled into get-away cars and left the scene of the crime.

the bi-racial committee was initially the result of the first black assembly here at y.h.s. which brought forth grievances aimed against the administration and faculty. after a meeting with mr. miller about the grievances, the sca decided to sponsor the bi-racial committee. this committee went on to arrange a black history week, which included informative showcases and bulletin boards showing the various aspects of black life. overall the success of this committee was not realized; there were two reasons for its failure. first of all it was powerless as it was virtually a token organization, and secondly it did not represent a sizable portion of the student body here at york.

j.v. football

the 1970 junior varsity team got off to a good start. new coaches, mr. horton and mr. williams, were strong guiding hands, and players from the largest sophomore class ever at york produced a variety of talent. from the earliest practices, the high morale was evident, and it was more than justified by a 5-2 season. with further experience and great team work, the j.v. should triumph as a great varsity football machine next year.

pat giravard, gail gurtler, merilee fax, debbie meinberg, anna cain, sue engle, sue as always, falcon athletic teams were backed up by another team — a screaming, dancing, and spirited team of girls — the cheerleaders. led by varsity captain, sue mattson, and j.v. captain sue kepley, they set up training tables for football, wrestling, and basketball players. a usual friday afternoon, saw tedra rumsey resting after making signs for that night's football game. the cheerleaders had two main moneymaking projects; they sold mums for homecoming, and resorted to servile work (the car wash), to sponsor the varsity football banquet. these cheerleaders bolstered york's school spirit and cheered the teams on, in spite of our losses. miss hoge and mrs. zepkin were sponsors this year.

j.v. cheerleaders: adolia hazelwood, joni cluverius, linda walkup, sandy shelton, connie fitzgerald, sue kepley, connie ward, diane bierman, kathy seals, francine abrams.

terri hamman, amid a crowd of football fans, was crowned 1970 homecoming queen. from the bleachers falcon fans cheered their team on as york unsuccessfully fought james blair in york's annual homecoming game. a great controversy still exists over who deserved first prize for decorations after all the damage done by the wind. but the juniors received the coveted first place award. the traditional dance concluded the events of the homecoming week.

with excitement undaunted by the freezing cold and scoreless first half,
terri hamman accepted
her crown as 1970
homecoming queen. seated on her silver throne
that was contributed by queen received the

circled the field in an appropriate conclusion to the festivities.

"the spirit of '71" was an appropriate theme for the miss york high pageant as representatives of the class of '71 carried away the first three titles.

they were linda washburn, miss york high, marilou kelly and toni tyndall, first and second runners-up. a flag motif was expressed through star and stripe decorations and a patriotic dance.

batons gave the contestants something to hold on to as an auditorium of scrutinizing faces and those all important judges created an atmosphere of nervous suspense. while the girls awaited the final decision, musical performances by the choraliars and the fife and drum corps helped to relieve tension.

hockey

with three returning varsity players, and a new coach, miss johnson, the field hockey team worked hard to establish a winning season. york high was just one of the many teams who participated in the annual tidewater field hockey day in williamsburg. the team, led by diane krogh, captain, and sharmon puffenberger, co-captain, prepared for the tough season. they finished the 1970 season with a 2-6-2 record.

this past year the gymnastics team was led by janis brooks and coached by miss susan johnson. there were seven sophomores, three juniors and one senior on the team. it was two sophomores who led the team in all-around events; debbie smith and karen brooks, who received 1st place every time for floor exercise. janis brooks also consistently took first place in tumbling. injuries took their toll as pat moore dropped out because of a broken ankle along with debbie smith with a dislocated elbow. although there were only three meets, they managed to give a gymnastics demonstration at thomas eaton.

seventeen students and two adults left for the union of soviet socialists republic on december 19. the group headed by ed markoff and steve zalumas, stopped at new york, london, frankfurt, and then they proceeded to moscow. they stayed there five days and saw many of the city's attractions. they discovered the beautiful parks, explored the catacombs, and rode the metro. aside from the many attractions they saw, the thing that interested them most was the people, especially the russian students. they all left with the idea that people were alike all over the world. they left with many remembrances and many new friends.

the day started for a few enthusiastic seniors at 5:00 in the morning with a happy hour in the parking lot. carrying with them fantastic moods and . . . they boarded the bus and promptly positioned themselves for the long journey. despite the rain to and from washington, high spirits were not dampened. upon arriving in the big city — cries of exclamation were heard, "what, you only have to be 18?! let's go to georgetown — no let's hit barney's." everyone went their own way but me! later for a refreshing dip in the fountain at the smithsonian. due to the wetness of the water, greg turner and don rainey found it necessary to shop for pants at landmarks. this excursion delayed greg's return to the bus almost causing him to be left behind. topping off the day was a boat ride down the potomac and a stop at marshall hall amusement park. needless to say a day that had begun with a happy hour or two or three . . . ended the same way.

the boy's gym was the setting for the first sca-sponsored donkey basketball game. yes, there were real, live donkeys! actually there were two games being played; juniors vs. seniors and riders vs. donkeys! well, the seniors won the ballgame by one basket but the donkeys stole the show.

why do people wrestle?
it's not easy,
so what do they get?
not glory,
there are no crowds,
no cheerleaders,
no bands,
people know about it,
but few watch it.

it's not glorious —
 it's long, hard, practices,
 straining and sweating,
 wanting to stop,
 but not stopping.
 working up to one point
 when it's you and him,
 one to win, one to lose,
 it's all you've worked for,
 there's no one else to blame just you.
 maybe that's wrestling,
 training to your best,
 then pitting yourself
 against another.
 if this is so,
 york can be proud.
 for york's had good
 wrestlers, consistently,
 finishing this year,
 with an 8-5 record.

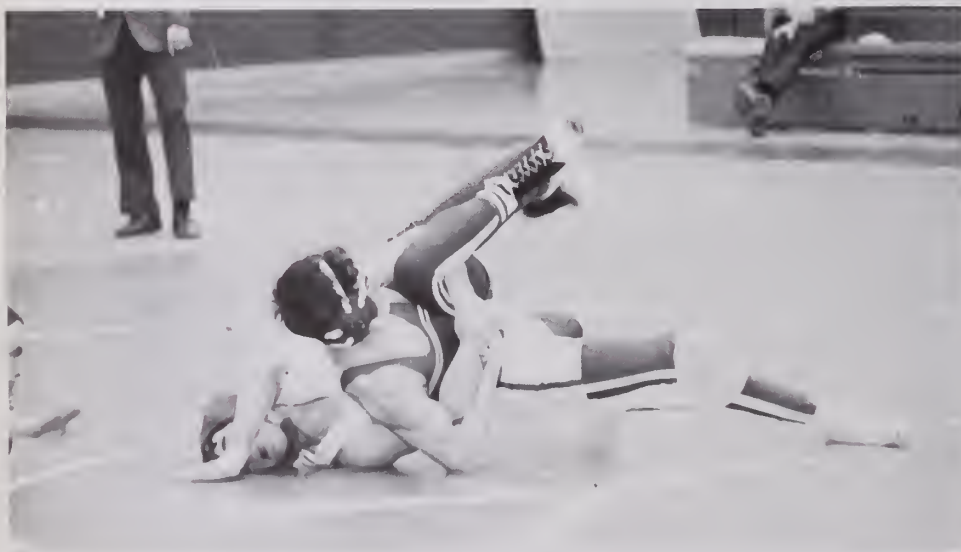

york started well,
 winning its first four
 matches,
 an easy first match
 we beat blair, 49-3.
 followed up by a 43-8
 win over poquoson.
 pembroke and denbigh,
 both harder teams,
 but 33-13 and 34-14,
 we win.
 and then it broke,
 a double match,
 douglas freeman and
 huguenot at hampton.
 we lose the first,
 17-25 to huguenot
 and win the second,
 28-17 against
 douglas freeman.

a disaster at bethel,
 steve parker and eddie watts
 are hurt,
 we lose 20-22.
 to warwick, 19-28.
 two more wins,
 menchville, 22-20
 then carver, 45-11
 but ferguson snaps it,
 a 14-24 loss.
 we come back for kecoughtan,
 a 36-7 win
 but close the season
 on a sad mark,
 a 14-26 loss to hampton.

an 8-5 season,
 it could have been better,
 but it's no disgrace.
 the season's over,
 now the districts.
 les mulkey, heavyweight,
 york's only first.
 wayne beasley, 185, second
 for the second time,
 steve parker was second at 138, joe bennett at 105 was third, ralph angel got fourth for 119
 and mike winebarger,
 a fifth in the 126 class.

behind it all,
the coaches,

fred mitchell for j.v.
they are the ones,
the ones that work you,
the ones that train you,
the ones you can thank for your victories.

in preparation for the g.a.a. sponsored, fourth annual gym show, each gym class had three weeks to create, practice and perfect their routine to be presented in front of an audience. even though the classes were the gym show, the g.a.a. was in charge of the tickets, publicity and programs. some of the standout features of that night's performance were the soul dance, the circus-clown act, gymnastics, limbo, virginia reel, and the tumbling — vaulting act. many declared it a success as it grossed the g.a.a. several hundred dollars.

falcons were proud to play host to students from around the state at the 45th annual conference of the virginia student cooperative association. the week before the conference saw harried chairmen, working hard so that york could really "put on the dog" for some four hundred sca officers. the theme "pathways to a better sca" seemed appropriately chosen as visiting students traveled falcon halls, meeting new friends, and attending planned discussion groups. entertainment, a candlelight dinner, and a dance complete with band and decorations brought about a relaxing end to a weekend of dedicated study.

the endless hours of rehearsal, mixed with tears of distress and joy, finally paid off when "kiss me kate" proved to be another success. mrs. rathcamp and mrs. burcham just about exhausted their music and drama know-how with this musical, and they came through once again. the two female leads were played by four girls. lilli and kate were played by sherri stitt and marilou kelly on alternate nights throughout the performance. lois and bianca were shared by kathy albrecht and lori shackelford. the male leads were played by george hudgins and jay seaman.

the lead of lois and bianca was shared by lori shackelford and kathy albrecht.

before opening night the scenes backstage were anything but the expected. groups got together to do homework, some slept, some danced and a few raced on carts behind the curtains adding a little laughter to the monotony of backstage work. but the crews played their part well in "kiss me kate." led by mrs. mills and student director anne wingfield they proved their worth many times over.

the opening night arrived. now each person realized that maybe they should have tried a little harder, practiced a little more, and played around less but each went on stage wanting to do their best.
the final performance showed that all their work and tears were not in vain — york had another successful musical.

baseball,

the american sport
a good sport for york.

coach mcconnell,
leading york to the top.

this year —
a three-way tie for third,
with blair and bethel.

our record, 9-3.
we barely made it,
we were fifth a long time.

york	1	warwick	8
york	5	hampton	4
york	3	menchville	6
york	0	denbigh	6
york	2	pembroke	3
york	3	bethel	12

coach mcconnell,
much credit for him,
more in this sport, than some,
deciding positions,
evaluating players,
much credit indeed.

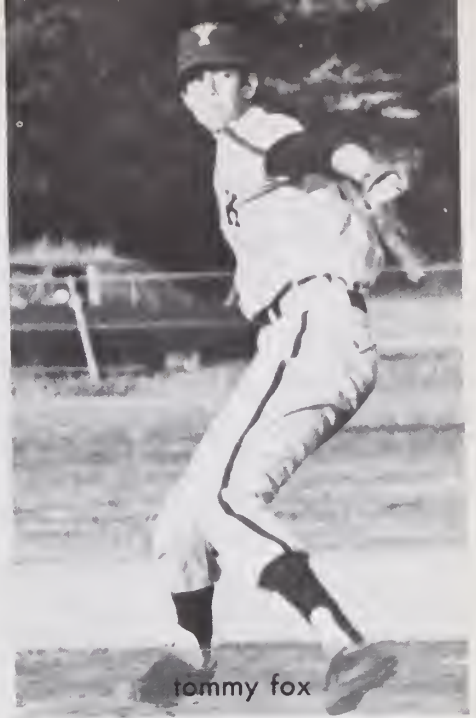

bruce brushwood,
leading hitter,
undefeated pitcher,
one reason we're third
kenny tyler,
second in batting —
two of the many.

but all in all,
 we did it as a group,
 no superstars,
 before the season,
 without the hitters,
 "a defensive team,"
 we were called
 during the season —
 a high-scoring team,
 outscoring the opponent,
 but whatever the way,
 the '71 falcons,

again this year a controversy between senior superlatives and outstanding seniors existed. each english class had a representative who went to a meeting to discuss the ideas of having senior superlatives, outstanding seniors or nothing at all. after all seniors had been confronted with the choices, they decided to continue honoring seniors by selecting them as superlatives.

june 4 or the hottest school day of the year, was very rewarding for the entire student body. sonny bryant and phil bowditch enlightened spirits when they read the last will and testament and added a few gifts of their own to the show, such as the most "freakiest," and the "soulest" people at school. topping off their performance was the russian nude picture presentation to "smokey the bear." moving on to the most serious part of the assembly was jimmy hundley's impressive speech about the black-white relationship here at york. mr. miller presented awards and scholarships to the seniors. the singing of the alma mater, which brought tears to a few eyes, finished york high school's class of 1971's day.

as the final hour finally arrived, the graduating seniors had mixed feelings. as the diplomas were handed out cheers or jeers were heard from the crowd but when they realized that this was the last time many would see their friends, the shouts turned to tears. but as usual the mighty class of 1971 went out in the same fashion as they came in as eighth graders — giving mr. miller a hard time.

under the guidance of mr. miller, administration duties were subdivided among the three assistant principals, mr. wallace, mr. burke, and mr. markoff. mr. wallace was in charge of lockers, textbooks, assemblies, and use of the building. he also supervised the buses. mr. markoff kept order in the cafeteria. he was in charge of girls' p.e. and athletics, as well as the i.c.c. mr. burke also kept the cafeteria in order along with the halls. he supervised the parking area and student teachers. in addition he was in charge of maintenance.

the office, nerve ganglion for the whole school, attempted to keep everything running smoothly. the student office assistants were invaluable in their help. along with the regular secretaries, they survived the turmoil of ringing phones, students signing in and out, the constant traffic, noise and confusion. they also managed to smuggle left-over chicken into the vault and finished the remains. later, they effectively hid the bones under debris in the trash can. student money-collectors could be seen counting their pennies into stacks on cafeteria trays to submit to mrs. barnes. other students seeking pennies of their own, got the necessary legal work permits from mrs. barnes.

this year, mrs. wilma luck returned to assume the duties of guidance director once again. because of increased enrollment, still another counselor was added to the staff. the department handled the largest number of students in the history of the school. with all the hectic and tiresome chores of rescheduling, college boards, testing programs, lectures and job placement, planning new courses for next year, and helping the seniors take their big step, the department also found time to plan the summer session for juniors who wished to graduate early.

the largest department in the school was the english department. in addition to the regular required courses, a new course this year was the development of the world literature course. attempts were made to correlate twelfth grade english and government classes. still existing were the specialized grade level classes, such as eleventh grade american culture, advanced composition for both eleventh and twelfth grades, and business english, an elective for the tenth grade.

mrs. m. walsh

the foreign language department offered a variety of courses in latin, french, german, and spanish.

vocabulary, pronunciation, grammar, culture, literature, and discussions were included in these studies.

miss ingle, a spanish teacher, visited mexico during summer and christmas vacations, and made plans to return the next summer. mr. prow, a new german teacher had served in the air force intelligence and later as a legal interpreter in international court trials. several bus loads of french and spanish students visited washington d. c. in the spring.

when not dabbling in paints or creating new paper mache monsters, the art department busied themselves with flashy backdrops and scenery for the musical. they handled scene changes and properties while a flurried mrs. mills rushed from one side of the stage to the other and back again trying to decide on a scene and calling out time limits for scene changes with her stopwatch. on occasion, their brilliant talents would be displayed in showcases where they got their just recognition.

york's illustrious students participated this past year in the antics of the drama department. driven hard by the leader, mrs. burcham, they received a "good" rating at the one-act play festival. they entertained the pta with their mime plays and put on the age-old nativity scene at christmas time. their biggest achievement was the production of "kiss me kate," which proved to be a huge success and a most satisfying experience for all involved.

with the demand for their courses growing rapidly, the social studies program expanded its staff to one of the largest ever. being an election year and with the passing of the 18 year old vote, seniors diligently studied the framework of elections and the republican party. psychology was still one of the most popular courses and was highlighted by a trip to eastern state. but the most important event was the invasion of russia by a small band of york students. trading pens and rubles, the trip proved to be an exciting experience for all.

math at york ran the gamut from industrial math to calculus, making available courses for job preparation and all levels of math ability. since math had the only accelerated program at york many students received additional credit points for their struggle. for the first time, the math department included an advanced placement program starting with algebra II a.p. for sophomores and culminating with the a.p. test for seniors.

smells of formaldehyde and four month old dead cats filled the halls of york as the advanced biology students strove to meet their dissection deadline. the never ending experiments of the chemistry classes added their own distinct touch to the aroma also. as the odors from various sections of the science department merged, one could say that something new was in the air — knowledge hopefully.

concepts of musicianship were the basis of music department courses. in music for listeners, students learned about the background and history of music. in music theory they studied advanced and difficult musical composition. the chorus classes provided a combination of both studies, in a broader and less detailed sense, as well as vocal participation and training.

still the most popular hangout in the school, the clinic handled its usual cases of sudden illnesses due to viruses or last minute studying.

in february, the clinic had more than its share of the action when the flubug challenged york. the bug struck the first blow by causing large numbers of students to fall ill during school hours. mrs. beasley fought back by scrubbing down the clinic to prevent any more contamination. but with the onslaught of greater absentees the bug reigned supreme and, much to the delight of the healthy students, school was closed for a day.

while walking down the halls of york one day, a student might just happen to detect a pleasant smell mingling with that of the cafeteria or the chemistry lab. it was in nearby rooms that teaspoons were mistaken for tablespoons and what were supposed to be cookies looked and tasted more like crackers. it was there that girls prepared for their dream to be a homemaker one day.

on the unbearable hot days, york's library was the most popular place to be — with its two new air conditioners installed during the summer. mornings before school were busy year 'round as students read newspapers, magazines, or did research which no longer could be done during school hours due to the elimination of full period study halls. another first this year were the new library hours — open until 5:00 p.m. three days a week which allowed students to stay and study and then ride the activity busses home. mrs. buchanan and mrs. moul, librarians, worked long hours on an unprecedented title II $6000 book order in addition to other routine orders, as they continued regular daily duties.

our boys in blue continued to "sail" the halls in even greater number than last year. now in its fourth year, the njrotc classes gave students a brief look into military life. study included naval history, oceanography, astronomy, and navigation. the corps played host to visiting cadets from wheeling, illinois, who were visiting the area. the drill team won first and second place awards for best drill unit in two parades. the program proved interesting and gave a background for those making the military their career.

yellow bugs added a touch of color to the drivers education program this year. instead of a holey road, there was a new driving range where students learned to manipulate the various models donated by local dealerships. a new air-conditioned building with a remote control tower overlooking the driving range gave instructors, mr. grayson williams and mr. gus smith, a safe vantage point from which to direct student drivers.

the physical education department added new teachers to their program this year. in the girls' p.e. dept., miss johnson and mrs. booker took over and in the boys' p.e. dept., mr. shamblin became the new basketball coach and taught p.e. and history. under the direction of the dept. head mr. barbee, the teachers have coached the students through football, basketball, track, softball, gymnastics, and volleyball.

the busy clicking of keys and the maze of mathematical computations on boards and books proved that business education was still in full swing at York. besides offering the usual business courses, the curriculum was expanded to include two new block classes — steno I and clerical accounting II. these two courses were designed to incorporate many aspects of the business world rather than the usual instruction in one area. but regardless the course, the classes were always in great demand and very crowded.

for those wishing careers in retailing, the d.e. program tried to help prepare these students for the complicated business world. here students learned the fundamentals of retailing and were allowed to test their study at part-time jobs. students attended the d.e. convention and jean prewitt won first in district in advertising layout while jesse eagan won second place in group presentation and debbie ogden placed third in window display. vickie roles, jean prewitt received plaques for showing the most improvement during their study in d.e.

as most falcons studied until mid-afternoon, ict members abandoned textbooks for such jobs as dental assistants, cosmetologists, microfilm technologists and mechanics. students worked in york county, williamsburg, and newport news. mr. weaver, instructor of the program, prepared these students for the jobs they undertook.

york's electronics program offered unique training and job preparation. mr. henkel and mr. phillips taught pre-vocational and vocational electronics which covered the practical areas of electronics. here students learned to repair domestic appliances and constructed radios. mr. little taught technical electronics which went into greater detail in electronic theory. students would get practice by working with all electronic systems in the schools, helping to keep them in working order. from these courses, students were able to get a strong foundation in electronics.

inside the shop, one could see students tinkering inside a car engine or maybe drafting a plan for a better school. the industrial arts curriculum offered courses in general industrial arts, woodworking, and drafting. in the classes, students learned the principles of carpentry, welding, auto mechanics, and drafting used in industry. these courses were designed to help a student find a trade or simply to broaden a student's horizon.

"united we stand . . ."

there is one word that sums up exactly what the senior class thought about all year long — graduation. this far-away dream became a little more real when seniors elected to purchase disposable caps and gowns. this meant that they could receive their actual diplomas at graduation ceremonies and get away to celebration parties a little sooner. the class of '71's money-making project was selling halloween candy and boxes of chocolates, and although it was not an overwhelming success it got them out of debt. a senior walked away with the title of miss yhs for '71 and talented seniors took the leads in the musical "kiss me kate." seniors put a lot of planning, hard work, and pride in their homecoming float but unfortunately ill winds were against them.

this was the "spirit of '71." a combination of class spirit, like winning the donkey basketball game; school spirit, at pep rallies; and community spirit, in bringing in the most canned goods.
"those were the days, my friends . . ."

junior class takes top honors at homecoming

the junior class overcame last year's "do nothing" attitude to make a substantial comeback in '71. they received first place for their homecoming decoration, first place in the clark gum pack drive, and were second only to the mighty seniors in the donkey basketball game. concerned juniors forfeited football games to work the concession stand and their efforts were rewarded when the money rolled in. to top off the year, the class of '72 planned and presented the traditional junior-senior prom.

dana foster, sec.; ed rastetter, v. pres.; cyndy murrow, reporter; ronnie montgomery, pres.; kay duguid, treasurer; steve hogge, chaplain.

from class to football games, juniors never lack enthusiasm for fun and food.

while ed and cott cheer on enthusiastic falcon fans, homer huffman, alias "kevin," enjoys a hearty meal? these are typical junior traits.

sophomores top 5000 in magazine drive with the most successful magazine drive ever, the class of '73 started off in good form. diligent sophomore salesmen raised over $5000 in efforts to establish a good reputation for their class. the sophomores showed tremendous school spirit at falcon pep rallies. led by class president pete henderson, they cheered the football and basketball teams to successive victories. receiving second place award for homecoming decorations and in the canned food drive, this year's sophomore class deserves credit for overcoming the apathy and bewilderment of their first year in high school.

this year's sca adopted a committee to conduct a critical study of the present bi-racial difficulties. its purpose was to explore ways of improving the relationships between all students at york. an entire week was devoted to black history — bulletin boards, show cases and inspirationals all helped students to realize the necessity of friendly, close relationships. an equally active ecology committee cleaned part of rt. 134 and york high in an effort to help brighten yorktown. another major project this year was the sponsoring of the state sca convention where york was host for hundreds of representatives from all over the state. further "slackening" of the dress code enabled girls to wear slacks to school this year.

the icc, inter club council, was composed of club presidents who organized the school calendar and scheduled all activities so as to avoid conflicts in money-making projects. occasionally, bobbi grimes was known to react rather "cooly" whenever club presidents submitted their already completed events for approval.

after the sca's constitutional revision, a nominating committee selected candidates which were then voted on by the student body. due to an apparently "honest" student body than ever before, the honor council had no trials this year.

beta club intellectuals made plans this year to change over next year to the national honor society, an organization with wider recognition. because of this, only seniors were inducted and yet more new members were tapped than there were of existing members! along with planning for the future, members launched a money-making project to cover induction expenses and to offer scholarships. beta clubbers stood watch at york's basketball games scouting for spectators who were burdened with cumbersome winter coats. original plans were to charge 25¢ per coat, but in a supreme effort to curb inflation, the beta club lowered the price to one thin dime, which came to a final total of $50.00.

the forensic program at york started in september. led by miss alley, the debate team, along with extemporaneous and dramatic interpretation contestants, emerged as a challenging force not only to the district, but to schools in the north and southeast. the first year varsity debaters represented the peninsula district at the state aaa debate tournament at uva this year where they placed third in the state. during the york invitational — the forensic team won a total of fifteen trophies.

previous debts forced the talon staff to mimeograph the paper this year. an entirely new staff was formed to take over the school newspaper. the problems of production — gathering the news — typing and printing the paper and actually telling it, occupied the staff members until the journalism class took over production in the spring.

after the third unsuccessful attempt to tap quill and scroll members, students on the falcon, and talon staff, and the journalism and advanced composition classes were finally tapped. members for this honorary society were selected by the sponsors and chief editors of each staff.

the thespians club, an international honorary drama society, honors students who have done outstanding work in dramatic productions. cast and crew members from york's extravaganza "kiss me kate," the christmas play, and other presentations throughout the year were selected and tapped as a means of recognizing their contributions. this tapping was the only club activity this year.

of the many projects performed by the d.e. club, presenting a certain york county family with a very generous christmas basket was by far the most rewarding and worthwhile of all. these york students along with those of twelve other schools participated in the annual fall rally held at bethel high. this year "an employer of the year award," and two academic improvement awards were presented at the annual employer-employee banquet.

one of the most impressive field trips taken this year was by the future business leaders of america. they went to washington, d.c., and toured the f.b.i. office and went to maryland to see the social security office. this trip was paid for by the candle drive in which the club cleared $400.00. in may the installation banquet was held and new members were inducted.

ending its fourth tour of duty at york, the njrotc program continues to offer its 3 year cruise to study the many aspects of military life. with 112 signed aboard, a typical week was devoted to 3 days of academic work in seamanship and military studies and 2 days in drill. the unit took many field and sea tours, including a day at an air show by the blue angels. the corps also played hosts to visiting cadets from wheeling, illinois. finally after 3 years of hard work and seasickness, the seniors held an awards' dinner at the officers' club at the naval weapons station. these awards included best cadet certificates of accomplishment, and to honor cadet lt. comm. marion sulenski, who won a four year scholarship to the university of idaho.

for those with enough energy and desiring a different kind of sport, the njrotc again sponsored its drill team. this drill team served as representatives for the whole corps performing at yorktown elementary, loyalty day, and armed forces day. of the six parades in which they marched, three offered awards. our team proudly marched off with first and second place awards.

the november initiation of york's "deutschfalken" club was one to be remembered by members for years to come — they recited the club motto, ate raw cabbage, and sang german songs. this club received high praise from faculty members of william and mary when during a christmas party at the college they recited a german christmas poem. a "fasching" dance in february and finally the "schulendfeier" (end of school dance) finished the year's activities for this active organization.

the pep club attempted projects to foster school spirit at york. these included sales of buttons and banners, a bonfire, for homecoming and buses to away games. the most commendable effort was seen in the members' avid attendance at york games. their dedicated support of team efforts was an important inspiration to all.

science club

members of the science club were active in the science fairs held in tidewater. in march they participated in the science fair at yorktown intermediate, and if they received an invitation went to the tidewater science fair in virginia beach. in may students wrote scientific papers and submitted them to the virginia junior academy of science. mike connors, a member of the science club, placed second at the eighth annual science, humanities, and engineering symposium at uva in dec. and was invited to the national science symposium at west point in the spring. sponsor mrs. rammer wanted the club to weed the courtyard — an ecological project.

the pride and joy of a small and very busy group of people is wycs, the most powerful high school radio facility in the u.s. members learned not only how to run a radio station, but also this year, how to build and wire because of the renovation to studio b. it now has new acoustic tiles and an air conditioner. their facilities and techniques made it possible to tape student voices, monologues and popular music to be mailed to an english class in france. large, wood call letters were attached to the radio station tower so as to be easily noticed from rt. 17.

what organization was little known to the students, worked very hard, and was composed of intelligent girls who were "in shape?" the girls' athletic association, of course. the gaa consisted of girls who participated in sports, intramural and extramural. each girl received points on the basis of membership which led to awards assembly, for this year's gym show, "in the know." the gaa handled publicity poster, tickets and programs, in hopes of making enough money to cover the cost of their athletic awards.

a weekend camping trip to the mountains marked a highlight for the fca who regularly held dinner meetings throughout the year at different homes, including mr. mitchell's, their sponsor.

they saw a film report of the big, national fca revival in kansas city. at christmas time, they gave gifts to a family — canned goods, clothes, and toys. several athletes gave their witness at different club and church organizations.

the main desire of the choraliers was to be ready and willing to sing at any time. their most interesting and inspiring achievement this year was the concert for eastern state. the entire audience was deeply moved by their selection of christmas music. york high choraliers were best known for their clear sounds and wide variety of songs. these girls, under the leadership of pam wilkins, represented york's musical talent in the community.

aside from the usual bake sales, concerts, and other activities, this year's music department sponsored three distinctly different programs. william hudgins, renowned concert pianist, performed for an auditorium of falcons and other york county citizens, definitely a cultural first. "we the people," a new addition to the music department's groups of entertainers, contributed a little bit of soul to department performances. near the end of the year an exchange concert was sponsored. students from richmond joined york's a cappella singers for a good time and good music.

battling a hectic schedule, the falcon band found time to entertain york students with original performances throughout the year.

to display their originality, the band put on five half-time shows including the "lights-out show" at homecoming. the band participated in many parades and gave three concerts during the busy year. at the district VIII band festival in march our band won a superior rating. ten members placed in the regional and workshop bands while rodney edmondson was first chair drummer in the all-virginia band.

the marching band placed first over 12 other schools in the armed forces day parade. on top of all this the band found time to record their first stereo record with the stage band.

NEWPORT NEWS. WE'VE LAUNCHED MORE THAN 500 SHIPS.

But wait 'til you see our encore. When we started out in 1886, we were just a small ship repair yard. We named the company Newport News. Because we were proud to be doing business here.

Today we're the largest shipyard in the world. And we're still proud to call ourselves Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. Because a lot of the people who helped put us where we are today come from right here on the Virginia Peninsula.

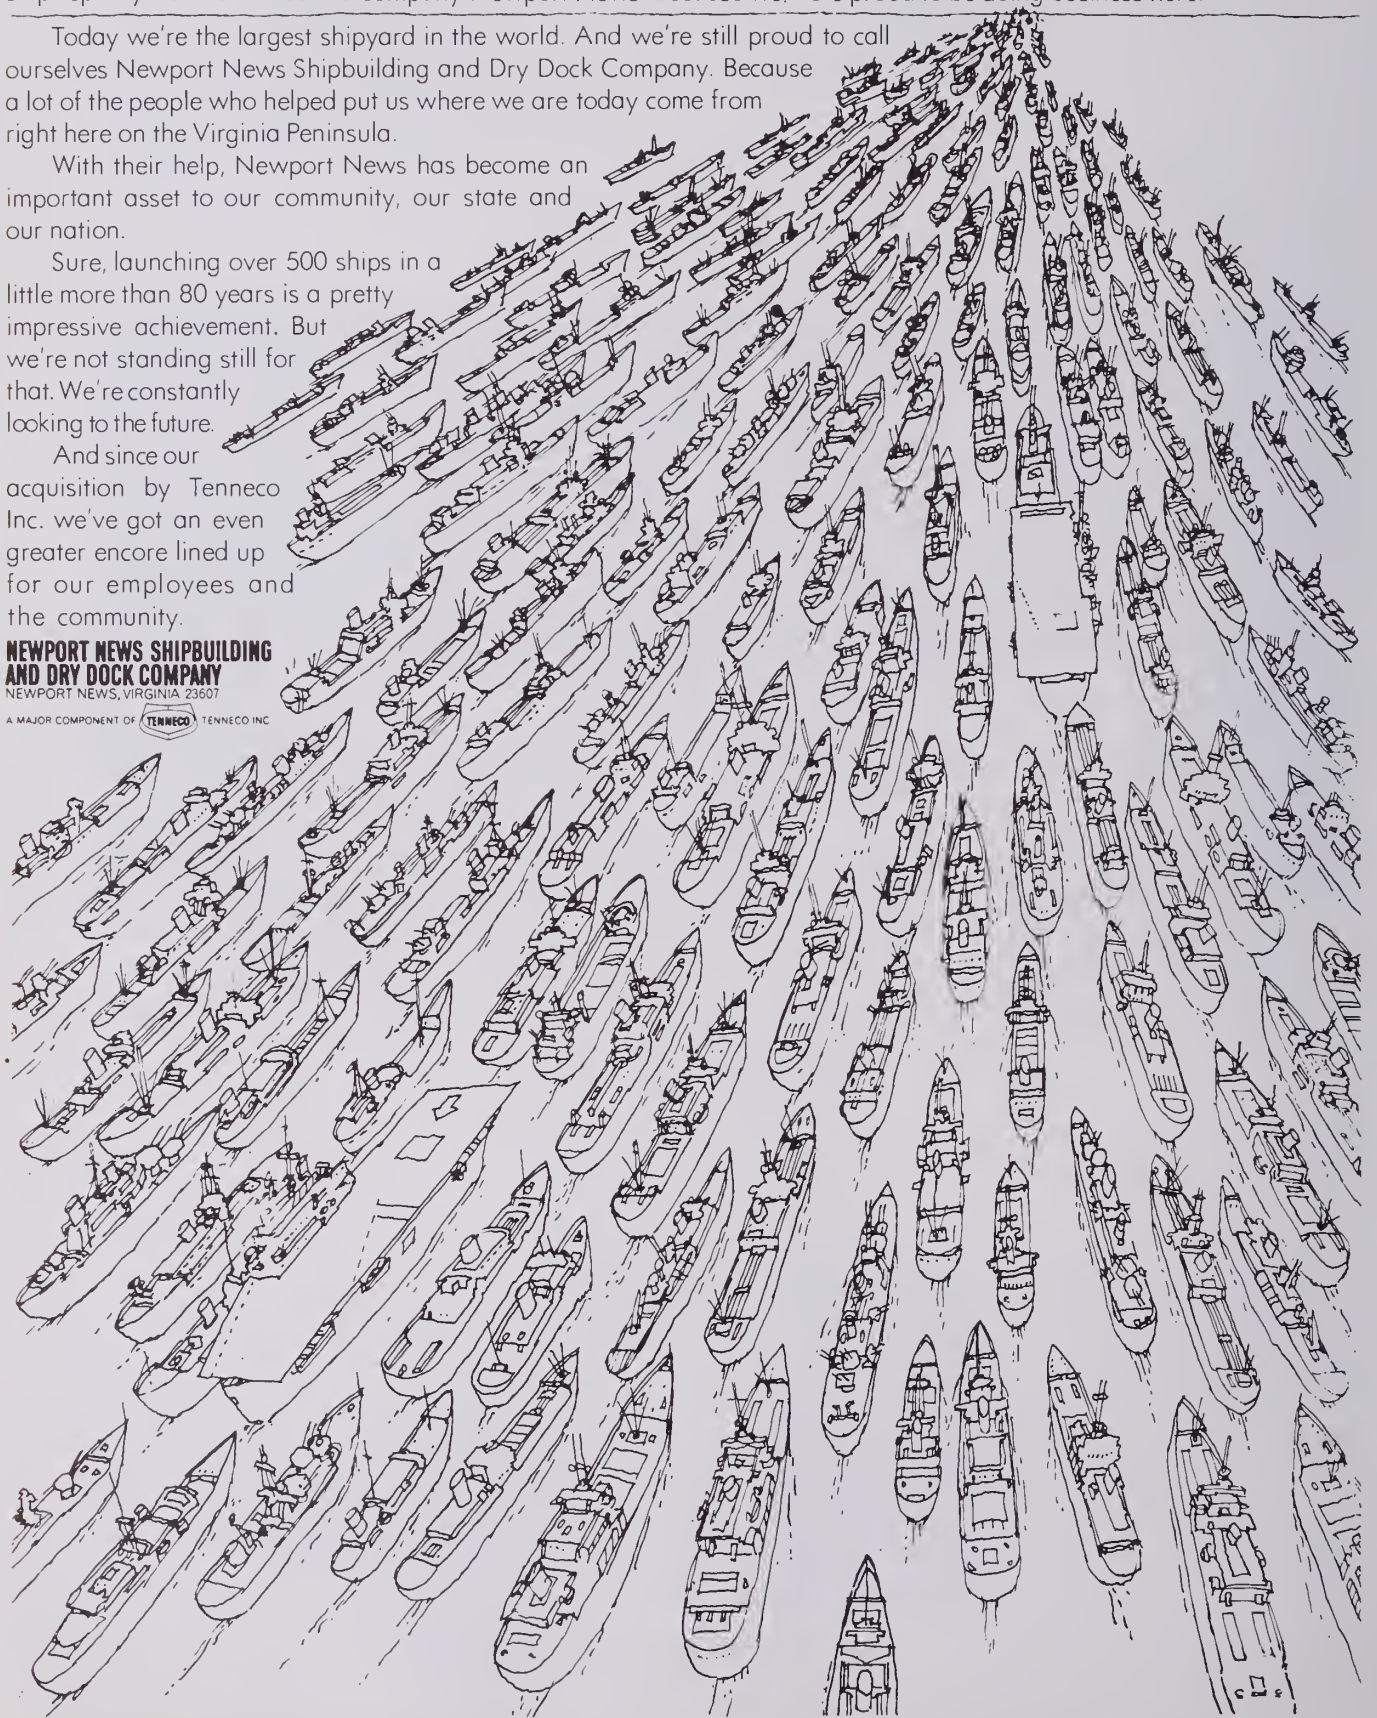

With their help, Newport News has become an important asset to our community, our state and our nation.

Sure, launching over 500 ships in a little more than 80 years is a pretty impressive achievement. But we're not standing still for that. We're constantly looking to the future.

And since our acquisition by Tenneco Inc. we've got an even greater encore lined up for our employees and the community.

*What can one man do, my friend
What can one man do
To fight pollution in the air
That's closing in from everywhere?*

There is one thing you can do, my friend.

Air pollution is a big, complicated problem. One man or one company can't do everything. But we can all do something. You can do something. You can change from leaded gasolines to Lead-Free AMOCO. AMOCO has no lead to pollute the air or your engine. AMOCO eliminates lead emissions, a major concern of health authorities. It reduces hydrocarbon emissions, too. Around 15%. For our part we're trying very hard to solve the basic problem. For example, at all our facilities we're working to fix whatever pollution problems we find. We're working with car manufacturers, too. Some day soon they expect to produce cars that won't pollute the air. Such cars will require a lead-free gasoline. And we're ready. That's the real answer. Cars that don't foul the air. And gasolines that don't either. Someday all gasolines will probably be lead-free. Right now there's only one. Lead-Free AMOCO Super-Premium.

notes about the book

the 1971 falcon was printed in offset by the taylor publishing company, dallas, texas, with the special assistance of mr. danny de falco. the cover was designed by sue mattson, who won first place in cover design at the taylor summer seminar in 1970. the dividers were designed by debi nelson with creative photographs by staff photographers.

the headlines of the 1971 falcon are set in 30, 24, and 18-point impact. body copy, captions, and identifications are set in spartan. body copy is set in 12-point type with introductory phrases in italics, captions in 10-point type, identifications in 8-point type. index pages are set in 8-point type.

the book itself is a new type of format — "informal-formal" — with stress on the informal. the informal section presents the year's activities in chronological order from getting to school to graduation. the formal section follows the informal.

editor's wrap-up

we have finally done it — our yearbook is finished. it has been a long, hard job from our workshop session at the 1970 taylor seminar to the last day of school. there always seemed to be something going haywire, like having to take club pictures three times, last minute this and that, and mostly learning a new technique in yearbook design. teaching everyone how to create a new type of book helped me more than ever in many ways. i learned a great deal from my work as editor. it has brought a new light into my life. the work couldn't have been finished without the skilled experience and guidance of mrs. baldino, my advisor, mr. danny de falco, my representative from taylor, and the outstanding job done by my staff. to all of them, my thanks, for making the 1971 falcon a most exciting yearbook.

thank you
